Flash2Go Options

Professional photographers often spend a lot of time after the photo session in front of a computer preparing images for clients. The process includes viewing hundreds of images, selecting the best images for viewing and then processing those photos making them their best. Next comes the work of organizing the image files into various galleries or print formats on our website, presenting them to you. Don't get us wrong, we love doing it, especially with great images: But, it is a lot of work.

Our 'Flash-2-Go' option removes all that time and work from the equation for us. This allows us to pass the savings on to you. After completing the photo session, we load the unprocessed and un-culled photo files onto a USB flash drive and hand it over to you for your non-commercial use.

You will receive files in the jpeg file format. Jpeg files can look pretty good coming directly out of the camera, but most files benefit from some post-processing work. Also, files we process are the 'raw' files, which contain way more data than jpegs. This extra data provides much better files to work with, providing you ultimate image quality.

If you choose 'Flash-2-Go,' we will keep your raw file images. If you ever want us to process images, we would be happy to do that. Tell us the files you want processed by providing the file names. We will give you a quote on how much that processing will cost.

We will take the raw file for the selected photos, process them and load them up onto our website. This gives you access to order prints or download your files for free. You save money through the benefit of having files processed specifically chosen by you. This way, you do not pay for processing on files you may not be interested in.

Quoted rates are within our service area: 90 mile circumference from Clearwater River Valley. We are happy to travel further but will need to add the extra travel costs on our quoted price.
